The performance lag, whether in elites or recreational athletes, can often be treated by taking special measures—like a longer warm-up—or with an albuterol inhaler.